Rekindle the Fire Open House was an enjoyable evening for several Ambuc members. The emphasis of the evening was to generate new active members from past associates and lost friends. We met at the Nutter Center Berry Room, where there was a delicious spread of appetizers, desserts, friends and Amtrykes. The highlight of the event was giving Liam Ferguson his own tryke. He climbed right on and was a great sport, even sharing a ride with his sister. Thanks to everyone who worked so hard to organize the evening.

Fish Fry

Thanks to everyone who helped make the Fish Fry on the 5th of March a huge success. Especially Sandy my co-chair and Andy Barrett for handling all the gambling tables. A great big Thank you to everyone who sold tickets and gave us the large crowd. Next year's date has already been set. March 4th at the VFW. The hall's reserved and we'll be set to go again. Mark Your calendars.

Speaker for Wednesday, April 7th, 2004.

Be sure to make our meetings and bring a guest, especially April 7th as Gussie has lined a special guest for us. His name is Dan McCormack and he is a filmmaker living in Xenia, Ohio who is making his first feature-length film.

At age 15, Mr. McCormack was injured in a car accident and rendered a quadriplegic. Upon his high school graduation, he attended Wright State University as an English major. He completed several Creative Writing courses, which developed his skills as a screenwriter over the past ten years. He recently completed a short film, in which he wrote, co-produced, directed and edited using an ultra-low budget. His production of Turing the Corner is a story of personal importance to him and has taken over two years to complete. The story is a compilation of ideas, observations and experiences over 29 years.

Besides his skill with screenwriting, Dan has established a career as a web designer/webmaster during the past 4 years. He currently maintains, edits and updates two commercial websites.
